Well looks like they are finally getting Skype for Linux packaged for Ubuntu. Be warned, it is very buggy. I have tried it out and it has stopped working 5 times. I think it is a good step for a lot of people who have been waiting for a Skype client for Linux, especially as Microsoft is now officially supporting Linux development. This will probably mean that Skype will no longer be a... This is all about a new web based version of Skype for Linux, it comes in the form of a desktop application that runs on Linux. It aims to have all the most important features from Skype included, so the video-chat client is nothing like what we have been used to in the past and there are no voice calls yet. Microsoft has partnered up with the Linux community for this project in order to add further support for Linux. It is a beta version now, so it is not quite ready for... Dear all, I have been trying to install Skype on my Ubuntu 12.04.2 LTS system, but I have not yet been successful. I tried to install the desktop version. I downloaded Skype-1.2.0.42-1_i386.deb from www.skype.com, but when I ran it in Terminal: sudo dpkg -i skype-1.2.0.42-1_i386.deb sudo dpkg -i skype-1.2.0.42-1_i386.deb dpkg: error processing skype-1.2.0.42-1_i386.deb (--install): ... This is a pet peeve of mine, as Skype offers an option for every contact to "remove your Skype number" but not every contact is an "owner" of the Skype account, and thus can remove your Skype number. Thankfully this is now much better in Skype 4.0 This question is not about Skype and is only about the fact that every "contact" is not an owner. In Skype 4.0 when you go to contact preferences and you go to "remove Skype number", an additional popup will appear to.../* * Copyright (c)
